everytime I have come, when I get home you break up with me; You dont want to build healthy, loving and prosperous relationship with me. You dont love me and dont want a life with me. You dont appreciate my love or how hard I work for us. Last time we spoke, you made it clear you want nothing from me. And now I am left with a severly broken heart, feeling like you and your family and friends want me charged and convicted and my life ruined, that you dont even acknowledge or take responsibility for the weeknof your behavior making moves to uproot my calm and loving approach with you. Then waiting till I was in a known vulnerable place to attack me emotionally, further abusing my emotions and mind again. And yet anytime you call on me all I emotionally, further abusing my emotions and mind again. And yet, anytime you call on me, all I have is love for you. And yet, you refuse to do what you know we need to do, to actually build something well and good. You leave me astray and crippled emotionally, mentally and financially instead. I have tried to help you in everyway, I feel you wont lift a finger to help me at all. You know there is not a day that goes by I dont think of you, pray for us and want nothing but love happiness and health for us both. I care it hurts, I care this isnt right, but when are you going to? and when are you gonna do your part? I dont have any other choices but to suffer the situation, give you the space you asked for and pray for love, happiness and health to us both, and I am totally alone on that you know in your heart and mind that I don't want for either of us to hurt, be in trouble, get fucked over or be in a shitty place or suffer at all.

you know I love and care about you, you know I have for a long time. I don't know or understand why you go the places you do or why you make the choices you make; I am just a man who has tried to love you over and over again.

It's not true that love and health and happiness are not in the cards for you; it's that you don't choose it. You choose the

Its not true that love and health and happiness are not in the cards for you; Its that you dont choose it. You choose the oposite; It started with Vic in SF and through countless others with us, I held on because I truly love you and you kept working me to believe you did as well; You cant say I have not worked, tolerated and loved as much as I can; You cant say I didnt want good and beautiful things for us ;It breaks my heart Tess. I have to stay true to who I am and be the change I want in the world, no I am not perfect and I am human and fuck up too; But you know I care, you know I loved you deeply and I will do my best to do the right thing even if I make a mistake. I want happiness, health and love for you in life; I want for you to do things that bring this

I'll keep praying for you, I don't find "solace" in your comment. I'm dealing with the misery and the pain of the situation. But I'm gonna keep hoping and working for the good of things to come.

you said I deserve better and you said I have a good heart; I would prefer of you to meet me there, because it's been you I love and wanted.

I'm sorry I didn't well to answer your question about my facebook post; It not about you, its about something my daughter tried to pull on me.

she got in a fender bender and her and two guys called me to try and get me to send money, but she has insurance and wasnt hurt, they were just trying to take advantage of me for reasons I cant define.

Am I the evil?

You tell me Tess

I dont know Tess; thats something you have to ask yourself based on what your intentions are and the choices you make

Oh I'm sorry to hear that

Tess, I dont like hearing you are saying you are sad and have anxiety.

And my life is just miserable since the discard.

There is so much to say in there. A lot of mistakes were made. I hope you find solace in that you don't have to suffer me anymore

this just feels threatening, and just causes me alot of mental anguish, emotionally it just hurts because it feels the intent is to inform me you want to do more damage to me and my life.

No it's not meant to be threatening. It's just that a lot of feelings are on both sides and for me it doesn't feel productive
